Recognised for its commitment to quality, leadership, technology and innovation, the organisation was one of two South African companies to receive an award. On picking up the award, Just Property CEO John Roberts said, "We make quality a core focus for continuous improvement of management to maintain leadership in our sectors and the communities in which we operate."

Nominated by an anonymous member of the International Committee for Selection of Candidates, Just Property Group had to demonstrate excellence in five of the criterion set out by the organisers.

The company has also been shortlisted in the Arabia/Africa Property Awards. Winners will be announced in Dubai on 4 December, with the winner being taken forward for the International Property Awards.
