Hellofood, the online food ordering and delivery service operated by Foodpanda, has announced that its Kenyan users can now order KFC and Ocean Basket from the service.

In a press release, the company says the chains add to over 270 restaurants from which customers can order food across Nairobi and Mombasa on its online marketplace. "With full automation, the restaurant owners are able to monitor orders made, pending, shipped and cancelled through a seller centre portal," the company says, adding that all deliveries are made within an hour.
