

Aetas Mobile unveils new incentive scheme for free flights

Aetas Mobile has launched a new incentive scheme that allows its customers to earn free flights with JetVision Airlines by buying airtime.

Photo by Daria on Unsplash

Explaining how the standard Aetas Club account works, Aetas Mobile director Paul van Zyl says: "If any member purchases airtime, they are credited to the same amount to their linked Aetas Mobile account".

Customers sign up for a standard Aetas Club account, at a cost of R30 per month, and get 100% of their spend paid back into their Aetas Mobile account. Those who sign up for a JetMobile Club account for R90 per month qualify for the free flights deal.

"Spend R100 and you receive R100 loaded on to your account. The money can be spent on more airtime or data, or to buy the multiple products offered by our retail partners on our website."

Attention Android users! Be wary of malicious apps

7 May 2018

Customers can sign up for the JetMobile account and start accumulating cash towards aeroplane tickets.

As an example, a JetMobile account holder who buys two gigabytes of Aetas Mobile data per month for six months and saves their 100% cash back will be able to fly return for free from Johannesburg to Durban.

JetVision currently offers flights between Johannesburg, Cape Town, Durban and East London.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>