

New website to watch Luckysters.com

A newly launched South African aggregation site and search engine went live on 22 March 2010 to make it easier for South Africans to search for jobs online. "I simply launched the site to aggregate all vacancies from trusted sources such as corporate careers pages and make it easier to search that particular database," says Themba Sikhosana, the 23-year-old founder of the site. Companies can promote vacancies, graduate development programmes and bursaries on the blog at no charge. Go to www.luckysters.com for more information.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>