5 Aug 2009

The Provantage operations team is growing with the addition of seven new team members: Project Managers to manage activation campaigns and assistants to ensure that all runs smoothly on the admin side.

“Although the new appointments grow the size of the team, most of these appointments come from our base of regular promoters, thus giving our temp staff the opportunity to grow their careers and reward them for their loyalty and reliability in campaigns over the past few years and ensuring that we live up to our goals and values regarding empowerment and mentorship,” says Vaughan Berry, Sales Director at Provantage.
