

Sponsorship required for reality TV show

Sponsorship required to fund reality TV show for broadcasting.

The show is a social and educational reality TV show that is aimed at empowering young women in South Africa by bringing intelligent, dynamic young ladies together, provincially, from different cultures and races to compete against each other for a grand prize.

The idea is for these young women to learn how to live with one another, share, accommodate and tolerate one another regardless of their race and culture differences. Putting heads together as a team, they must make sure that they complete each and every task given to them, despite their backgrounds.

Doing so, they will be adding value and improving their skills and confidence to build capabilities that will prepare them for their future careers.

The show focuses on young women who have finished their Matric - but, cannot afford to go to university and/ or college to further their studies due to poor financial backgrounds. This also includes university and/ or college graduates who find it difficult to get jobs due to lack of experience.

The show needs funding for broadcasting, marketing, promotion and launch initiatives.
