

New publication brightens office life

Panorama Publications has launched a quarterly magazine, OfficeLife, which offers office workers guidance on productivity, office politics, stress management and other tips to survive the office. It is edited by Kate Kennedy, who has been working in publishing for seven years.

click to enlarge

The magazine is distributed through OPSA (Office Professionals of South Africa) to its top members and via Office Active, the service provider to office supply companies, as well as via subscriptions by individuals and companies.

Panorama Publications MD, Urs Honegger, comments, "We are very excited about the distribution model, which is a new way of doing things."

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>