

DISCOP AFRICA 2012 now open for registration

The 7th edition of DISCOP AFRICA, the pan-African industry gathering focused on the production and distribution of multi-screen television content, is now open for registration. The event takes place at the Sandton Convention Centre in Johannesburg, South Africa from 31 October - 2 November 2012.

DISCOP AFRICA combines a market, a co-production forum and a training program offering unparalleled opportunities to buy and sell television content, initiate partnerships, access valuable information, connect with key players and learn from experts.

The three-day event will welcome exhibiting sellers representing international and African sellers of popular and high-quality film, series, animation, comedy shows, formats, sports content, documentaries, educational programming as well as distributors of thematic channels.

With the digital migration deadlines fast approaching, exhibitors will also include a select group of international digital broadcasting and content management solutions providers ready to help position Africa's multi-screen television content programming and production marketplace as a world-class digital destination.

Delegates from all over Africa are expected to interact with speakers, moderators and panelists chosen for their experience and their ability to share ideas and insightful views, featured in the various sessions offered.

For more, go to www.discop.com.