

SANParks offers special National Parks Week discount for accommodation, camping

As part of South African National Parks Week 2019, the South African National Parks (SANParks) is giving the public a discount of up to 40% on accommodation and camping in selected National Parks - specifically from 8 to 12 September 2019.

The discounts are available to new reservations made online via www.sanparks.org/bookings from today onwards.

SANParks already offers senior South Africa citizens (60 years and older) up to 40% discounted tariffs on accommodation and camping at various times throughout the year, but SANParks managing executive: tourism development and marketing Hapiloe Sello said: “This special discount will be available to all overnight guests at the selected camps during SA National Parks Week.”

“SANParks wants to encourage South Africans to explore their national parks and get to know the natural and cultural heritage of the country. By using this opportunity during SA National Parks Week the public will also be able to join in certain activities available as part of the free access week.”
