

Sister Bliss to tour SA in March

Faithless frontwoman Sister Bliss will perform at Wild Waters in Johannesburg on 10 March 2018 and Shimmy Beach Club in Cape Town on 11 March 2018.

As the musical force behind Faithless, the world's only multi-million selling stadium dance band, Sister Bliss has sold more than 15 million records over the course of a career spanning 20 years including seven albums and six top 10 singles. Together with frontman Maxi Jazz and producer Rollo Armstrong, she is responsible for creating some of the most unforgettable tracks in electronic music.

Bliss learnt to play piano at the age of five, moving on to the violin, saxophone, flute, and eventually the bass. A love affair with house music began in 1987 and led her to become one of the few female house DJs in Britain at the time. Her career behind the decks blazed a trail for female DJs the world over, as Sister Bliss stepped up to play the boys at their own game.

With appearances at the most popular clubs worldwide, she began to make her own records and had already released a number of her own compositions by the time she met fellow producer Rollo. She has numerous singles and two solo albums under her belt and has worked side-by-side with music icons such as Boy George, Dido, Example and Robert Smith of The Cure.

Whether live on stage as part of Faithless or in sole command of the dancefloor from behind the decks, Sister Bliss has successfully cemented her status as a world-renowned DJ, record producer and true pioneer of modern dance music. South African crowds can look forward to a 90-minute showcase from Sister Bliss characterised by her technical skills and music selection including several Faithless dance anthems.
