

Engel & Völkers to launch Premium Partner Programme

As soon as you enter a property transaction, the amount of admin involved in the process is immense. You have to organise property insurance, life insurance, transport for your home content and sometimes you even have to start thinking of renovations of your new home. The endless phone calls and e-mails can all add up and become somewhat of a second job.

Now Engel & Völkers will be able to ensure that this becomes something of the past with their new partnership initiative.

"We wanted to assist our clients beyond the signing of the contract by offering them an all-round service in one location. Clients will soon be able to benefit from using Engel & Völkers as their property specialist with our new Premium Partner Programme.

This exclusive service will take care of all their needs, from the purchase to the re-location and even the furnishing and renovations," explained Craig Hutchison, CEO of Engel & Völkers.

The Premium Partner Programme will be launched on 15 July 2012. All Engel & Völkers clients will be able to benefit from this initiative through special and unique products and offerings through their Premium Partner Network.
