These excursions are part of MSC Cruises' mission to offer guests an environmentally-conscious holiday. The new Protectours programme, which currently offers over 25 tours, gives MSC Cruises' guests a chance to discover destination while making a positive contribution to the planet through activities aimed to help protect and preserve.

Protectours gives guests insights into the natural world while also preserving its beauty and helping to ensure a greener future, from forest hikes with rescued dogs in Jamaica to meeting urban honey bees in Corfu.

At the beginning of 2020, MSC Cruises became the first global cruise line to become carbon neutral across marine operations. This commitment to the environment naturally extends to onshore activities with Protectours.

The tours serve two purposes: firstly, they offer an opportunity for MSC Cruises to empower their tour partners to diversify their offering to include more sustainable activities, and secondly influence these partners to operate their businesses in a sustainable manner and become engaged in a Global Sustainable Tourism Council certification programme by the end of 2020.

According to a new MSC Cruises' trend report, The Future of the Guest Experience, as the climate changes, guests are seeking more efficient and eco-conscious holiday options, with sustainability, social impact and civic engagement at the forefront of people's minds. More than half of Generation Z consumers (54%) say that the environmental impact of travelling is an important factor when deciding where to travel. Offering opportunities for civic engagement will not only help the destination in question, but help eliminate the guilt that guests may feel when travelling.

The Protectours will be offered across multiple regions around the world, with highlights including:

Animal haven rescued dogs forest hike, Jamaica

This half-day experience allows guests to hike with rescued dogs from the Montego Bay Animal Haven.

A magical world of bees in Corfu, Greece
