

SponsorSA.com launches website to engage rights holders, sponsors, suppliers

To assist property rights holders, investors and suppliers in the sponsorship industry, SponsorSA.com has launched its website, providing a one-stop shop for information on South African sponsorship opportunities.

Some sponsorship properties have priced themselves way out of the market for those less fortunate marketing budgets, leaving marketers scrambling for that something special, yet affordable project to collaborate with. SponsorSA.com simply gives sponsorship decision makers one place to peruse at their leisure.

An added benefit exists for those already actively involved in sponsorship, to post sponsorship news on the site's LinkedIn page, via the twitter feed @sponsorsa, or by posting articles on the website itself.
