

What now for e.tv?

NEWSWATCH: According to a Mail & Guardian report, following recent events at e.tv, there are some questions over the future of the broadcaster.

For more:

- Mail & Guardian: HCI split leaves future of e.tv in the balance... Yesterday's AGM at HCI saw the end of the long business partnership of Marcel Golding and Johnny Copelyn.

It also apparently saw some minority shareholders making clear their unhappiness regarding "certain corporate governance issues" and "lingering questions over the future of HCI's media interests, which include broadcaster e.tv" says the report.

- See also:

- e.tv's Golding goes
- e.tv: Golding claims of ANC/Sactwu threat to editorial independence refuted
- Now e.tv's COO resigns

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>