

SA job site announces one millionth registered user

Avusa's online recruitment site CareerJunction last week announced that it has over one million users registered on the site, highlighting the ever-increasing trend of online job searching in South Africa, as opposed to more traditional job hunting methods. Mandla Mamba of Johannesburg received an iPod Shuffle from CareerJunction for being the millionth registered CareerSeeker. On average, CareerJunction claims it advertises over 40 000 job ads per month on behalf of its clients, attracts around 340 000 unique visitors per month and generates in excess of 15 million page impressions over the same period.
