

Closure of PC Format magazine

Panorama Publications announced late last week that the May issue of PCFormat (PCF) magazine will be the last printed version.

The original PCF UK has had a number of licensed products around the globe over many years. All but two PCF printed versions remain - the original UK version and one other. All trends and developments clearly show that specific markets are moving away from paper in totality or showing a significant preference for digital and online offerings.

The G3AR website, which is closely linked to PCF, is growing stronger by the day and will continue evolving. It will serve as the base platform for some exciting new developments in the coming months. For more information, go to www.G3AR.co.za.
