

South African Success Summit back at Sandton Convention Centre

Following on its inaugural success last year, Global Success Summits founder, Greg Secker will be presenting the South African Success Summit (SASS) at the Sandton Convention Centre on 1-2 March 2014, to an expected audience of 5000.

The summit focuses on sharing success strategy insights and the skills needed to create a wealthier and healthier mindset along five broad themes, namely business leadership, entrepreneurship, wealth creation, negotiating and public speaking skills and personal development.

Richard Branson headlined Last year's 2-day summit. This year, Steve "The Woz" Wozniak (multi-billionaire and co-founder of Apple) will headline the programme with a team of selected international and local speakers including:

- Jordan Belfort (The "Wolf" of Wall Street)
 - GSS founder Greg Secker
 - International sport icon Francois Pienaar
 - Human behaviourist Dr John Demartini
 - Extreme entrepreneur and space energy investor Peter Sage
 - International businessman and investor JT Foxx
 - Speaking coach Andy Harrington,
 - South African innovator and inventor Siyabulela Xuza,
 - Futurist Anne Jirsch
 - Organisational culture expert Colin J Browne
 - Branding and marketing guru Raymond Aaron
- PLUS a major controversial international figure who has been garnering headlines around the world!

Speakers engage with impoverished youth

The Knowledge to Action Foundation, in partnership with the Ubuntu Education Fund, is holding a 2-day Youth Success Summit for disadvantaged 13-17 year-olds in Port Elizabeth on 27-28 February.

The purpose of the youth summit is to give children access to information not traditionally available to them by listening to and engaging with some of the top international speakers who will be presenting at SASS. The speakers have volunteered their time to give motivational talks to the children on life skills topics that include health, wealth, leadership, entrepreneurship, making a difference and contribution.
