

Hillbrow policeman wins 'Right Stuff Challenge' and R500,000

The final winner of Windhoek's 'The Right Stuff Challenge' and R500,000 is Hillbrow policeman, Lawrence Mmei. The promotion gave two fans the opportunity to turn their lifetime passions into reality. The first winner having been selected last year.

For Mmei, this will give him the means to renovate his parents home and take him one step closer to running his own business one day. As part of the prize, he will be given access to a mentor of his choice to assist him in reaching these goals.

"Winning this competition has given me a brighter outlook for the future and has proved that anything is possible," he says. He purchased the winning bottle from FGT Wholesalers.

Alan Roberts, Windhoek marketing manager says, "We feel privileged to be the catalyst that kick-starts the journey for these two fans and hope that the campaign will inspire others to follow their passion."

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>