"So many students use Gumtree - for part-time jobs, or to buy and sell their stuff to assist with costs like textbooks and tuition," says Gumtree Head of Marketing, Claire Cobbledick. "We wanted to show our thanks and lend a helping hand to the many enterprising young South Africans who have given us their support. It doesn't matter which college they are at or intend to attend - anyone can apply."

"We're pleased with the results and encourage students to get their entries ready as soon as possible. They need to send a 150-word motivation detailing why they deserve to be the lucky winner, taking care to include their full name, address, contact number and email address."
