

Serengeti Estates launches The Whistling Thorns apartments

Located on the second fairway of The Whistling Thorn, Serengeti Estate's nine-hole golf course, The Whistling Thorns apartments comprise 188 units with architecture and design by DHK Architects.

The development features three-bedroom units of 139m², facing the golf course, a second, north-facing building with two- and three-bedroom apartments measuring up to 120m², and a third block type with 12 apartments spread out over two floors.

The site selected for the development measures five hectares, and the layout thereof includes green space between buildings. "This has enormous visual appeal. It also creates the kind of atmosphere and environment, promoting serenity and tranquillity, that residents expect from a lifestyle estate. But more than this, it ensures privacy," Aram Lello, associate director at DHK Architects, explains.

Construction on the site will commence in November, with the first units ready for occupation in the last quarter of 2018. In addition to The Whistling Thorns apartments, the developers will be upgrading infrastructure and creating new amenities within the estate.
