

CNBC Africa launches Kicking Doors with Sbu Leope

CNBC Africa, in collaboration with Sbu Leope and Leadership 2020, has announced the launch of a new show, Kicking Doors with Sbu Leope, designed to educate and inspire growth amongst the 'billionaire generation' in Africa...

CNBC Africa and Leope aim to elevate the status and profile of Africa's next set of billionaires, the aspirant and fiercely relentless who will stop at nothing to reach their dream. Expect a practical, tactical focused 30-minute window into the world of Africa's leading minds with a high level experienced team of experts narrating the terrain.

Leope comments, "The show is designed for people like me, who challenge the status quo and break boundaries. The generation that is sick and tired of being sick and tired. We will usher in a fundamental paradigm shift in the way people think and apply their energies towards accomplishing their dream."

The show will feature a live studio audience to contribute to the discussion and engage with Leope and Africa's leading entrepreneurs.

CNBC Africa's Executive Director and Head of Programming, Bronwyn Nielsen said, "The channel continues to explore new programming innovations, which help to make business media more universally accessible. Kicking Doors will be our flagship in that regard."

The show goes live on Tuesday, 4 August at 20h30 CAT.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>