

DionWired to sponsor Grand Designs Live

DionWired is the title sponsor of Grand Designs Live, now in its fifth year. Described as an extensive, home and garden show, it will take place at the Coca-Cola Dome in Johannesburg from 23-25 May 2014.

Andrew Jackson, director of DionWired commented, "The companies share similar visions, as both seek to provide personalised home solutions to our customers, helping them move one step closer to their dream lifestyles. The sponsorship of the national show was a logical one for us and we are excited to see how our customers respond."

From homes to havens

At the show, lifestyle trends, design and premium brands will merge with dreams and desires at the DionWired Grand Theatre. This interactive space gives guests the opportunity to hear first-hand how celebrities and experts turn their homes into personalised havens. It has discussions, demonstrations and presentations that indicate what is happening in the decor, technical and home styling worlds.

Tickets are R85, with pensioners and students paying R60 and children under 12 free. For more information, go to www.granddesignslive.co.za.
