

Project 'Angola Online' officially launched

BizTech Africa reports that a digital project, named Angola Online, has officially been launched by the country's Ministry of Telecommunications and Information Technologies, in partnership with the National Center for Information Technology.

© Julien Eich - za.Fotolia.com

For more:

- BizTech Africa: Angola Online free internet project launched in Luanda... According to the report, the project includes the nationwide installation of free internet access points in areas of higher population density, and will ultimately aim to have five million Angolans connected by 2017.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>