Pixel Global (AV) Limited, the international audiovisual and integrated technology specialist company, has announced its Global Partnership Programme.

Pixel Global AV has joined forces with Kilowatt Audio Visual \(Pty\) Limited, to launch Pixel Global AV South Africa.

The Partnership Programme is part of the company's plan to ensure that clients get a consistent service globally by working with regional offices, offering local support in a local language and local time zone.

Dillon Jearey, CEO, Pixel Global AV South Africa, said, "I believe that collaborative communication solutions are saving people time and reducing corporate carbon footprints. We are excited to now offer our clients international support and product expertise as we move into a more connected world, with video conferencing becoming a standard in corporate communication. This partnership opportunity fits strategically into our accelerated growth program for Kilowatt AV."

Tim Darwell-Taylor, Pixel Global AV, Global CEO, said: "Having conducted work for clients in Africa from the UK, we understood the need to find a partner who can support clients locally. Kilowatt is an established AV provider in Africa and its strong client base, creativity, technical expertise and delivery strength made them a natural business partner for us."
