

Nicole Capper is crowned Mrs South Africa 2018

Pharmacist, model, speaker and guest house owner, Nicole Capper from Johannesburg has been crowned the winner of the 2018 Mrs South Africa at a grand finale which took place at Emperor Palace, Johannesburg.

Mother of two, Capper will become an SABC 3 ambassador and represent South Africa at Mrs World, this December.

Hosted by TV presenter and business woman, Joann Strauss alongside multi award-winning musician, Loyisa Bala the finale featured a guest list of top South African talent and leading designers, including the Vuyani Dance Group who kept guests entertained.

The celebrity judging panel included former Miss South Africa and business woman, Cindy Nell-Roberts a principal judge, Vusi Zwane, entrepreneur, Thuli Sithole, former Miss South Africa, Unaiza Mooiden, business women and Peet Viljoen, business man, while showcasing fashion designs from Orapeleng Modutle Style Avenue and Lisof Fashion design school and retail education institute.

Winners and judges

Gela Le Roux was crowned first princess and Mankoana Nhlebela, second princess, while Candice Robbertze who raised the most funds for Cansa during her tenure as a finalist, was crowned Mrs Charity.

Capper walks away with prizes to the value of one million rand from the Tammy Taylor Mrs South Africa official sponsors, including Tammy Taylor, Lamelle, Catrice, Caribbean Tan, Thandar Inc, MPact, Gerald Wells, Wella Professional, System Professional, Batsumi Travel, Nomination and Deetlefs.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>