It goes without saying that the most FAQ amongst creatives is, what does the future look like and most importantly what's next?

The Next Chapter first took place in Cape Town, with the second edition being hosted in Johannesburg in the first week of June.

“This is a seminar for creatives by creatives. As a creative entrepreneur myself who has walked the journey and experienced the challenges faced by most creatives, like money mismanagement, lack of business acumen, lack of access to funding, depression, and toxic work environments, I know how important an event like this is, and how it's going to make a difference in the lives of so many young Creatives. Initiatives like these are much needed especially after what a lot of Creatives have endured during the pandemic” said Napoleon 'Napsta' Masinga, founder of Napsta Collective.

The Next Chapter aims to give creative entrepreneurs access to speakers and equip them with practical business tools through panel discussions and highly informative and interactive breakaway sessions. Added to that, creatives can also enjoy some fun, live DJs, entertainment during the breakaway networking sessions, and exhibitions.

The conference boasts 15 top local and international speakers and panellists who are subject matter experts and are respected in their fields.
