Job description

We're looking for an Inventory Controller who takes pride in getting the details right. Someone who notices what others miss, keeps things organised under pressure, and understands that small errors can have big consequences.

You're responsible for

- Keeping accurate, real-time control of raw materials and finished goods
- Managing stock using FIFO principles — no waste, no surprises
- Running weekly and month-end stock counts, and owning the numbers
- Investigating variances and resolving issues quickly and thoroughly
- Ensuring stock is correctly received, stored, and recorded
- Managing short-dated, damaged, or expired stock proactively
- Working closely with production to keep everything moving smoothly

The environment

This is not a desk-only role. You'll spend about half your time on the factory floor, in a fast-moving production environment, wearing protective gear and staying close to the action.

What matters to us

- You've worked in stock control (2–5 years, ideally in food or FMCG)
- You have a tertiary qualification in Supply Chain Management, or equivalent
- You're confident on systems (Intermediate/Advanced Excel & Sage Evolution)
- You have a valid driver's licence and your own transport
- You're detail-oriented and numerically strong
- You're hands-on and comfortable spending time on the factory floor
- You stay calm, focused, and solutions-driven under pressure

Employment equity

In line with our Employment Equity objectives, preference may be given to candidates from designated groups.
