

Show us your best work, and you could win a trip to London

The 5th Construction New Media Awards is looking for the best digital design to come out of South Africa in the past year. A panel of top-flight international judges will choose the most original, functional and elegant interactive solutions across an expanded range of disciplines.

In response to feedback during last year's competition, the organisers have added Motion Graphics and Advertising/Promotion to our existing categories of Online, Networked Executables and Offline work. Each of these categories will include a section for student work.

A gold trophy is up for grabs in each category, with the Grand Prix, a week at a leading London design studio, awarded across all disciplines at the judge's discretion.

The deadline for entries is 28 January 2005 and the award ceremony takes place on 24 February alongside the 8th International Design Indaba at the Cape Town International Conference Centre.

Finalists' work will be on display to an audience of Indaba delegates and speakers, giving top entrants valuable local and international exposure. And for the first time, the judging panel will use the ceremony to comment at length on each winning piece and to explain the judging process, making the whole event an integral part of the Design Indaba learning experience.

This year's judges are Tom Roope (Tomato, UK), Patrick Burgoyne (Creative Review, UK) Simon Waterford (Poke, UK) Daljit Singh (Digit, UK) and Andries Odendaal (SA)
