

Mind the Gap returns to Cape Town

Mind the Gap, a comedy show that features top South African comedians, includes interactive video inserts and is hosted by Kim Engelbrecht, is back after a two-year gap at the Grand Arena GrandWest Casino on 27 May, 2011.

Slick and sexy Kim Engelbrecht will host the show, which will feature some of the country's finest comedians, including Joey Rasdien, Tumi Morake, Robbie Collins, Melanie Jones, Mum-Z and some exciting newcomers.

As is traditional, there will be some relatively new acts that are introduced to the Cape Town market. One of them is the much-talked-about Robbie Collins. Originally from Durban, Collins' has been the opening act since 2009 for many top name comics, including Marc Lottering and Trevor Noah, and has been on many heavyweight comedy bill.

Tickets are priced from R100 (excluding Computicket Service Charges) and are available at Computicket. Call +27 (0)83 915 8000. PG advised.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>