

Do you know an agency innovator?

NEW YORK, US: An innovator thinks about advertising in new ways, is an advocate of breakthrough communications, a champion of international brand-building and best practices, and is clearly a leader for these times and the future. Is there an agency executive you know who meets the criteria? Do you qualify?

The Internationalist magazine will feature its sixth annual issue dedicated to the innovators of the agency world at summer's end. These executives are often the unsung heroes of making campaigns happen, while also understanding how to better connect brands with their customers in relevant, contemporary ways.

Finalists will be profiled in The Internationalist Innovators issue and on www.internationalistmagazine.com. Agency innovators will also be invited to participate in an Innovators Summit in New York in November 2011.

Submit your nominations by June 30.

Go to www.internationalistmagazine.com, click on the top-right link above TRENDSETTERS and follow the nomination instructions. The magazine also contacts your nominees and let them know they were selected by you as a 2011 candidate. Candidates will be chosen by these industry nominations with final selections by our Innovators Committee and The Internationalist editorial team.
