

Europe's Design Awards: Open for entries

KALLITHEA, GREECE: The European Design Awards is a comprehensive annual awards organisation celebrating the best of graphic design, illustration and digital design in Europe. A joint effort by 15 communication design magazines from across the continent, the ED-Awards aims to be a brilliant way to publicise your work on an international level.

On deciding to enter any design competition you should ask yourself two very important questions:

How certain can you be on the quality of the results?

The ED-Awards claims to boast the most qualified jury around, composed of representatives from the leading European design magazines. They are specialised design editors and critics, whose daily work is precisely to recognise and promote the best of communication design internationally. Furthermore, an observer appointed by the International Council of Graphic Design Associations, the world body for professional communication design, is always present in order to ensure that all rules are followed to the letter.

What will you get out of it?

The ED-Awards is claimed to receive the widest publicity in the design awards field and the organisers claim that agencies and designers who excel here, receive the best coverage available. The reason is simple: the ED-Awards are based on a network of design media, i.e. the means of communication themselves.

How to enter

- How to submit work
- Winners' gallery
- Rules
- Categories
- Jury
- Other languages

Deadline 29 February!

Note that this year, all samples should be sent to:

European Design
Sokratous 157
17673 Kallithea
Greece

For more information go to www.europeandesign.org

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>